"TEACH PATRIOTISM IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS"

Dr. J. T. M. Johnston Believes This University Should Take Lead.

PRAISE FOR WILSON

"Reasoned Preparedness," for Defense Only, Urged by Religious Week Speaker.

"Excess of the good things of life is leading us into dangerous paths, and unless the University, by establishing a course in patriotism, takes the lead in putting into the hearts of the people of the United States, God-fearing patriotism, honesty, purity and economy, God pity our future."

This assertion was made by Dr. J. T.
M. Johnston, whose address on "Religion and Patriotism," Friday night, concluded the exercises of the first Religious Week at the University.
Those who attended the lecture in hopes of hearing the speaker declare himself in regard to his political aspirations were disappointed, as he did not refer to state affairs other than to say that "the University, a character-construction institution, is the most important enterprise within the borders of the state," and that "the press of Missouri is considered second only to that of New York, and its standing is largely due to the influence of the School of Journalism and Journalism Week."

"God-fearing patriotism is counted part of the boy's education in almost all countries except America, and we teach it neither in church nor school, except in the primary schools of New York," said Doctor Johnston.

He cited the careers of Washington and Lincoln to show how they were prepared for the patriotic tasks of their maturity by the training of their youth.

"As time has gone on," he said, referring to the disappointment which he, as a delegate to the Baltimore convention, felt, when Champ Clark failed to receive the nomination for President, "I have come to believe that the providence of God has been in the election of all our Presidents from George Washington to Woodrow Wilson. For patience, for perspicuity, for brains, backbone, learning and real scholarship, and masterful leadership, Woodrow Wilson has had few equals among our Presidents.

"Perhaps the most vital question in American movements today is preparedness. I believe in reasoned preparedness—preparedness for defense, not for conquest. We are playing with powder in a fiery magazine, when we unfurl our flag in extreme militarism. The year 1916 marks the beginning of a dangerous epoch in the history of the United States. Never, in the annals of time, has a nation been tried by the damning influence of riches as is the United States." Applause was elicited by the statement that the Daniel Boone Tavern was being built none too soon.

CHICKENS ROTHER COLUMBIANS

But J. M. Batterton Thinks It a Matter for the Police, Not the Mayor.

J. M. Batterton thinks some Columbia citizens consider him a member of the police department as well as mayor. Mr. Batterton said the other day that he had received several letters the last few weeks asking him to see that property owners keep their chickens from running at large.

There is a city ordinance requiring that residents keep their chickens from running at large, but the mayor says it is not enforced. One letter received by the mayor within the last few days asks him to notify chicken owners to pen up their pets, as they scratch lawns, making it impossible to keep the grass in good shape. The letter asserted that "even now there are twenty-five or thirty old hens in my yard."

The letter went on to state the mayor might send out a sleuthing party to get the names of all who are allowing their chickens to run at large.
This, in the writer's opinion, would make others keep up their chickens.

Mayor Batterton said he would take no action in the matter. He said if the persons want any action, they must make their complaints to the police.

gress at Washington.

Did You Know That—

The Rev. Madison A. Hart of the First Christian Church, aside from preaching first-class sermons, swings a creditable stick at golf.

"Bill" is the name of H. M. Mc-Pheters' Spitz dog, but he's just as much an aristocrat as if he were called "Reginald" in seven foreign languages. When "Bill" goes driving with his master in the big seven-passenger car, there is always an envious dog-rabbit yelping at him.

C. D. (Dixon) Williams, of the Tiger barber shop, whistles after every "next."

Dr. Woodson Moss, University physician, has been in the service of the University longer than any other member of the faculty. He received his degree from the Missouri School of Medicine in 1874 and the following year was made instructor in medicine and demonstrator of anatomy.

No matter what the time of day, S.
H. Baker, grocer, always says "good morning."

B. T. White is a weaver of rugs, carpets and silk couch covers. He says that he gets both pleasure and profit from this work to which he devotes each morning.

J. S. Moore, secretary of the Y. M.
C. A., finds pleasure in reading essays and biographies. He lives on the edge of town, where he looks after his own garden and keeps some five stock.

Says L. C. Adams, jeweler: "There are 525,600 minutes in a year, and I could enjoy myself each one of these minutes fishing."

Frank Shields is willing to let others go into raptures over the automobile. "For me it's the high-bred horse," he says.

Prof. Addison Gulick of the School of Medicine, when not communing with parasites, is spending his time with Bach or Beethoven. Doctor Gulick is an accomplished cellist and never misses an opportunity of whiling away an hour on his instrument. He is a member of the University orchestra—not for credit, but to keep in practice.

Any evening in the winter time, before, during or after the show, R. H.

Hall, manager of the Columbia theater, may be found playing the lonesome game of solitaire. With his imaginary enemy he struggles daily, and at present is yet "behind the game."

Homer Helbel is one of Columbia's foremost sportsmen. His records with gun and fishing rod are un-rivaled. He also is a strong advocate of baseball and has umpired a number of the Varsity games.

Charles Matthews, the plumber, knows more jokes than anyone else in Columbia, and he is constantly adding to his store.

FEBRUARY RAN TRUE TO FORM Mean Temperature Only Fraction of Degree Under Normal.

The February just past is the first month since last August with a mean temperature of below normal. The average daily temperature excess from September 1 to March 1 has been nearly three degrees.

In spite of the mildness of the winter, there have been several cold spells, during which the temperatures have been as low or lower than the average low temperatures. The lowest in December was zero, in January 10 degrees below and in February 5 degrees above. These cold periods, however, have been of relatively short duration.

The month just past, with a departure of but four-tenths of a degree has been the nearest normal of any February in the history of the Columbia station, twenty-six years.

The monthly sunshine was 49 per cent. But two previous Februaries have had less.

The precipitation was .81 inch, the least recorded in any February since 1907. Only two previous Februaries have been drier.

The greatest daily range of temperature was 28 degrees, the least on record for February.

Following the wettest summer since 1902, the past winter has had a precipitation above the average by two and a half inches. This has been largely due to the heavy snowfall, which has totaled 25 inches. This is the largest total since the winter of 1907-8, when 28.4 inches fell.
